Why Hy-Vee Partners with Bellevue University

Hy-Vee wants to be the best workplace in America. With such an ambitious goal, they need an education partner with an equally clear vision for success.

“The ability to learn and experience career advancement is an important part to being the best place to work. By collaborating with Bellevue University, we developed several programs to coincide with our internal training to help those employees who want to continue their education.

We know our employees are looking for opportunities to grow in their roles and advance within the company. Our partnership with Bellevue University has allowed us to provide reduced tuition to all employees and their immediate family members, with degrees that relate back to career paths within Hy-Vee.

Simply put, Bellevue University understands our needs and helps our employees succeed.”
